Camps were present from Ashland, Marion, Shelby, Bucyrus, Crestline and Galesburg. A number of visitors were present from the station camp.

The Galion Rotary club passed a resolution Monday night to send a telegram to the congressmen of this district urging that the budget which provides for a manual training fund in the schools should not be cut. C. B. Blomane of the city board was a guest of the club and gave a short talk on the bond and tax work.

Bond redemptions for all of the districts amounted to $213,832 while new bonds issued amounted to $112,770.00.

The greater part of the reduction was in the county indebtedness which $99,426.00 outstanding at the beginning of 1931 a total of $187,250.32 was paid off and only $87,770.32 issued in new bonds leaving the total outstanding debt of the county at the beginning of this year $325,415.32.

A decrease of $12,670.44 in the debt of municipalities in the county is recorded. The amount at the beginning of 1931 was $49,911.12 and at the end of the year it was $37,240.68. The greater part of this amount represents debts of Mt. Gilead and Cardington street improvements and sewers.

NEW SHREDDED BISCUIT "DOUBLE TOASTED"

Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit Introduce Many Improvements

Local grocers say that women are delighted with the extra crispness of the new Kellogg's whole wheat biscuit. It is toasted on both top and bottom—not just one side.

The biscuit is "pressure-cooked" by a special process that retains the full food value of the whole wheat. This process likewise produces a delightful, tasty flavor and makes the biscuit easier to digest.

Another improvement Kellogg's whole wheat biscuits offer is a new and more convenient size. Two biscuits just fit the cereal bowl without crumbling. And you get 15 to the package instead of the usual dozen.

As evidence of the high food value of the Kellogg's biscuit, the Medical Arts Laboratory of Philadelphia certifies every package. Served with hot or cold milk or cream, these tempting biscuits bring a well-balanced variety of healthful food elements to any meal.

Local stores are featuring the new Kellogg's whole wheat biscuit. Ask your grocer about it. You can identify this improved cereal by the name, Kellogg's, and the familiar red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

PROBE DROP IN PRESSURE

Special to The Star

ATTACK LEVELLED AT CASH BONUS

War Vets and Congressmen Heard From; Employment Insurance Urged.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Full payment of the soldiers' bonus was assailed upon a wide front today by members of congress who fought during the World War.

La Guardia, Republican of New York, called for unemployment insurance to help all unemployed instead of singling out one group of sufferers. He argued also that veterans should not be the victims of currency inflation, but should be paid in real money.

Johnson, Republican of South Dakota, and Simmons, Republican of Nebraska, said there should be some changes in the laws but that there should not be full payment of the bonus. Simmons said of the bonus favor payment of the present value of the certificates, but that he did not believe veterans could equitably ask for payment of the 1945 value of them.

La Guardia said another argument is that there is "a critical percentage of unemployment and destitution among the veterans."

OBITUARY

Alpha Omega Rhoads, youngest child in a family of twelve children, was born December 8, 1893, to George and Drusilla Rhoads. He was the last of his family to pass away, dying in the house where he was born aged sixty-eight years four months and five days. On February 27, 1897, he was united in marriage with Miss Martha Lulu Davis by Rev. Parlette of Latite, Ohio. To them were born two sons, one dying in infancy. The remaining son, Dale, now resides on the home farm.

Mr. Rhoads spent the evening preceding his death with his family, neighbors and friends in the Granger hall at DeCuff, returning home in his usual health. A few hours later, with no word of farewell, life's frail back slipped its moorings, and he sailed away into the unknown.

He was a member of Montgomery Grange No. 2236, and of Pomona Grange of Marion county. Mr. Rhoads was well known over Marion county, being interested in many of the county's public affairs; a good citizen of his community and a kind neighbor.

The outstanding feature of his life was his devotion to his family. He left no stone unturned to give his loved ones the best within his power to give them. And these loved ones have left with them the cherished memory of a devoted husband and father. He leaves to mourn, a loving wife and son Dale, two granddaughters, Margaret and Ula Mae Rhoads; many relatives, friends and neighbors, all of whom extend to the bereaved family their sincere sympathy.

This old homestead, too, is bidding a silent adieu to the last of its children who grew up around the fireside and was sheltered all his life beneath the roof-tree of this old home.

"Some may think we are not lonely When at times they see no smile; But no one knows the silent heart-ache. That we suffer all the while. He bade no one his last farewell. He waved his hand to none; His spirit fled before we knew. That he, from us, had gone. Never shall he be forgotten, Never from our memory fade; Loving hearts will always linger Round the grave where he was laid."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness and messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings, sent us at the death of our husband and father, Alvin Rev. Clark, for his comforting words, Mrs. Partridge and Mrs. Sappington for the songs, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Davis for their splendid service, those who furnished cars or helped in any way. Mrs. A. O. Turkish tobacco travel 4000

4000 miles

for better taste

CIGARETTE smokers owe a lot to Turkish tobacco, for it was cigarettes made out of Turkish tobacco that first became the vogue in this country.

Then it was found that a blend of Turkish and Domestic tobacco was better than either kind of tobacco straight. It takes just the right amount of the right kind of Turkish tobacco to give a cigarette better taste. For Turkish tobacco is to cigarettes what seasoning is to food—the spice—the aroma. You want enough but not too much.

There is just enough Turkish in CHESTERFIELDS to give them a better flavor, a more pleasing aroma; to make them taste better.

Turkish tobacco must pay an import duty of 35c a pound; but cost doesn't count when it comes to making CHESTERFIELD the best cigarette that science and money can produce.

REPLY VOICED BY ROOSEVELT

Strongly Denies Al Smith's
Inference on Alleged "Class Appeal."

Mr. Roosevelt's speech
April 19—Gov.
F. D. Roosevelt of New York has poked up the challenge ing parrot buried at a time for
Mr. Al Smith.

Addressing a St. Paul audience last night, the former president inferred of Smith that he proposed to "take a class" against a further end of his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Backs Jefferson Plan
Go Roosevelt declared himself pledged to a program calling for a national community of interests,
as espoused by his party's founder,
Thomas Jefferson.

If the Jefferson plan, he said,
was the most of it.
And, though he rejoined to Smith, he was emphatic. Gov. Roosevelt took the occasion a few minutes later to praise his distinguished predecessor of Gov. Smith for his part in preserving New York's power resources for the people of that state.

The Smith speech to which Roosevelt referred was made at a Jefferson day dinner at Washington last week, and dealt with a radio address which New York's present chief executive delivered about two weeks ago on the subject of water power tariff and other questions.

What Smith Said
The statement of the 1928 Democratic standard bearer, which was immediately construed as an attack on Roosevelt, was:
I would take off my coat and vest and fight to the bitter end any candidate who perverts in any dangerous appeal to the masses of the working people of this country to destroy themselves by setting class against class and rich against poor.

If, said there are millions of our people who can not be helped by merely helping their employers because they are not employees in the strict sense of the term.
He declared that by those millions
he meant the farmers, the small business men and the professional people.

A TRAMP'S LUCK

Millionaire Hobo Leaves Fortune
to "Confession" But Gesture Fulfills
His Last Wish.

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, April 19—The wary wiles of the road will get no money for Mulligan Stew from the estate of their late brother
James L. Howes, says Gordon Gutting, attorney for the administrator.

Once known as the millionaire hobo, Howes upon his death two years ago bequeathed the bulk of an estate estimated at $100,000 to charitable organizations to make his path smoother for those crossing the road to whom a flop house
was a luxury.

However, Howes who lived in St.
Louis apparently overlooked the laws of Ohio. His fraternal secure was for naught, says Gutting, for a state law voids a bequest to charity contained in a will drawn within a year of death.

THINKS ENGLAND PAST LOW POINT

Report Made by Exchequer Head, Budget Balanced

By The Associated Press
LONDON, April 19—Revival of trade and employment in the last few months gives Great Britain reason to hope that the worst of her economic depression is over.
Neville Chamberlain told parliament today.

The chancellor of the exchequer expressed this hope in the course of his budget speech in the house of common.

I am including, in the budget no
receipts from reparations and no outgoings for war debts. The two are self-balancing, the chancellor said.

Great Britain has balanced the budget with a surplus of £26,000 (approximately $200,000), the chancellor reported. He said that the relief for the relief for the income tax will be in effect and that the beer tax will remain at its present level. Thus the taxpayer will have to stagger along under no present burdens for another year.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 19—All eyes are turned to the new British budget
to provide for war debt and reparation payments next year brought a quick declaration today from Senator Reed of Pennsylvania an administration spokesman that this government expected to make the debt collection.

"HOODLUM TOWN" CLEANUP PLEDGED

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, April 19—A new political deal in suburban Cicero much publicized as the home of hoodlums became effective last night.

sworn into office supplanting the

when the unidentified ship was operating.

Prior to daylight it was reported that many men wearing soldiers uniforms and 70 automobiles carrying other mine pickets were headed for the mine. But they did not appear at that place and no pickets were present at Tasman and Harmon creek, on a road leading to the mine.

Guards employed by railroad companies and coal mines a stoppage on railroad ties and spur tracks leading to mines but no attempt was made to damage the railroad property.

Appeal Made to White
An appeal to Governor White to use persuasive efforts to end violence of the strikers who at presented over 100,000 men and several weeks ago was made last night by the commissioners of Harrison county.

Efforts of Secretary of Labor Doak at Washington to bring the miners and operators into a conference to discuss their difference peacefully have failed. Secretary Doak announced yesterday that the representatives of 30 coal mining companies refused his invitation although union leaders had accepted.

Secret meetings of all local of the United Mine workers were held last night throughout the district
but what they discussed was not divulged.

State Heads Strive To Settle Strike

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., April 19—State officials are working out a technical program looking toward a solution of the controversy between striking bituminous coal miners and operators. Governor George White announced today.

Commenting on the refusal of operators to meet with miners in Washington tomorrow at the invitation of Secretary of Labor William Doak, the governor said the state would be presenting at the opening line.

Although he refused to divulge his plan for settlement of the strike which began Feb. 1 when miners in the Hooking and Sunday creek fields quit in protest against a wage cut, the governor said he felt the plan would be acceptable.

STIMSON IN SHORT CONFERENCE VISIT

By The Associated Press
GENEVA, April 19—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson appeared at the session of the world disarmament conference today and took his seat with the American delegation.
His arrival caused a lively mood
of excitement among the delegates and spectators and a general cheering
of the delegates.

Secretary Stimson entered the conference two hours after the session opened.

The conference today approved
as a general principle a proposal that disarmament reduction shall be by stages with successive revisions after this conference has taken a first decisive step of general reduction to the lowest possible level.

Secretary Stimson remained only
a short time.

THINK STOCK LIST NAMES ARE FAKED

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 19—In the belief that many of the names
in the list of 24,000 "hot" sales presented for the stock market in inquiry represent dummies for important principals, some of the senate banking committee members today advocated uncovering
the real traders.

The committee held its inquiry
in substance on Thursday to give William A. Gray, of Philadelphia, its new counsel time to go through the tremendous list of transactions.

Addresses Association.

Rev. G. Tyler Gates, pastor of St.
Paul's English Lutheran church
was the speaker at the meeting
sponsored by the Marion County had been reported to be the first of loss is covered by insurance.

The blaze which started in neighborhood and burned high the roof of the house, which is a

TOO CAREFUL

Over Zealous, Safe and Sure
Autist Lands in Jail

By The Associated Press
MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 19—
John Roback is careful.
Patrolman Albert Lewis will testify to that. He saw John push an automobile down the street.
An explanation seemed in order so
he asked for one.

I'm in no shape to drive this thing, he quoted John as saying.
I thought it would be safer for traffic if I pushed it.

John was without shoes and had an explanation for that too.
I took off my shoes, he said,
to keep my footprints from both sides of the road.

John was arrested on a charge
of being intoxicated but he escaped
the more serious allegation of driving while drunk.

Memoirs of U. S. War General Answers Critics 'Without Gloves'

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 19—General Peyton C. March, chief of staff of the American army during the World war, has written a book of memoirs, answering critics with
"gloves off."

This phrase is new to his treatment of war and cover to and men involved in them. It was used in advance of the first volume, a 950,000 word manuscript.

March is the last of the important war leaders to put his own version on paper. It is a story he has not intended to write until he read recently published memoirs of General John J. Pershing. The book, March's friends say, he considered did not give the war department a square deal.

Two chapters describe in detail
the differences between General Pershing and the department. The book, the commander-inchief's son, time was overruled emphatically by March and Secretary Baker.

Another section of the March book deals with the relations between Pershing and the war organization. It is not by Baker, the chief of staff, but no attention to him by his biographer for special favors. The advance notices say that relatives of Pershing or other war leaders were given no commentary on the book.

One point of this it is related
was a call against March in connection with the St. Louis high-school bombing. March refused to write his memoirs until he had settled his account with the war department.

Why Be Afraid?

Two and two were placed together to give a convenient answer when appointment of Andrew W. Mellon as ambassador to the Court of St. James's was announced last winter. Mr. Mellon had been at the treasury during the whole trying period of negotiations over the war debts. He had given up a vacation in Europe to represent the United States in the difficult negotiations leading up to acceptance of the Hoover moratorium. He, himself, is one of the world's wealthiest men, and possessed of extraordinary financial sense and familiarity. So it was concluded that Mr. Mellon was being sent to England to negotiate for cancellation or revision of the war debts.

When that conception was established firmly, a violent national trembling became noticeable. War debts are political dynamite, and the administration sought to stop the agitation that might set them off by a flat denial that Mr. Mellon had been authorized to open negotiations on the debts. The belief that he will have something to do with them remains, however. Even when he failed to mention war debts during his recent speech before the Pilgrims' society, suspicions concerning his mission were not quieted.

Among the things he did tell the society was the following significant paragraph:

"In helping the world over its present difficulties, Great Britain and America are equipped to play together a role of incalculable value. You in this country have always been a great stabilizing influence in modern civilization. America, on the other side of the ocean, is like you in your desire for peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations; and in your willingness to work with others to achieve those ends. Together, we represent a great centripetal force in a world trying to fly apart. We must leave nothing undone to strengthen that force, not only by guarding our friendship with a sword and vital thing, but by working with all other nations to achieve again the peace and economic well-being of the world."

"This is a frank promise of British-American cooperation. It is a promise by the ambassador of this nation to deal honestly with Great Britain, which means that the problem of war debts will be placed under scrutiny when it comes up. President Hoover has found it necessary to say that Mr. Mellon was not sent to Europe to negotiate on debts, but he could not say that the ambassador of the United States will not enter into negotiations at any time during his service."

It can not be predicted that this thing or that one will happen to reparations and war debts, but it can be predicted safely that something is going to happen. Something will have to be done about reparations during the next two months and war debts before the end of the year. Instead of demanding foolishly and unreasonably that Mr. Mellon's hands be tied, it would be the part of common sense to feel safe that the United States will not be sold down the river while he is in the nation's representative in London. No one ever has accused him of not being naïve.

It has just been announced that a photograph of Pluto taken in 1911 by Harvard scientists has been recognized as such after eighteen years. It is the irony of fate that Dr. Percival Lowell, who emitted doubts and ridicule for years as the result of his contention that an "outside" planet existed where Pluto was found, should have died without knowing that there was at hand absolute proof of his contention. The thing is pitiful.

Explaining that he believed the country could get just as good prohibition enforcement for half what it is paying as it does now, Senator Johnson, of California, yesterday proposed the cutting of the prohibition appropriation of $10,250,000 in half. Judging by the defeat of the proposed bill, a vote of forty-two to seventeen, the senate must be taken to feel that the country is getting good returns for the money being expended in keeping the country dry—therefore, of course.

Some of the railroads west of Chicago, if they indeed all of them, are planning the offering of the lowest fares in railroad history to the country's great playgrounds, on which first-class Pullman service may be enjoyed. Rates of approximately a cent a mile, which is held to be lower than the cost of motor travel, will make 1932 a travel bazaar year. They are also expected to lure back to the railroad some of the business lost by them.

Decidedly Irregular.

The echo from Alfred E. Smith's now famous Jefferson day speech is greater than the original sound. Those who listened to it directly by means of the radio, and who were not aware of the political factors involved in the situation were far from being of one mind as to its import. Like one of Governor Roosevelt's good friends, calling on the leading Democratic candidate after the banquet, a good many of them chuckled deeply at the way "Al" Smith had soaked Alfalfa Bill Murray by calling him a demagogue.

But the politicians didn't look at it that way. As one commentator put it, Democrats celebrated Jefferson's birthday Wednesday and Republicans celebrated the Democratic celebration Thursday. "Most impolitic," muttered the men who must go out among the milling crowds to get votes. "Decidedly irregular," concluded the Roosevelt backers, while joyously assuring the public that their candidate's chances never looked better. "Whoopie," replied the Republicans, more or less privately, "the two-man rule has its signals mixed and it looks like a split."

Among those who viewed with alarm Mr. Smith's open admission that he doesn't approve of appeals to class prejudice, such as Governor Roosevelt made recently, was Tammany Hall. The chiefs, sachems and common braves had it in mind to hitch their way along to the Chicago convention inside a fence—a plan frustrated at an inconvenient time by a lot of talk driven through from the underground of the top rail by the Democratic candidate at the brown desks. And now Tammany will have to dismount and walk down one side or the other. Will trouble never cease?

EUROPEAN SMOKE SCREENS.

Americans who discern in recurring news from the other side of the Atlantic disconcerting evidence that Europe seems a house laboriously divided against itself should realize that there is an emergency reason for current disagreement and recrimination. The year 1932 is a campaign year in Germany and France. Politics is politics and politicians are politicians the world over, and the continent of Europe is no exception to the rule. All of which means that statesmen in both Germany and France are going through verbal motions which are not always what they appear to be.

There is a fair degree of assurance that the Hoover government and the Tardieu government are mutually bent upon removing some of the gunpowder from the Franco-German situation. In the case of France, her accumulating economic troubles are a powerful incentive to reconciliation with the eastern neighbor. But to maintain himself in the premiership, with a reliable majority in the chamber of deputies, is Andre Tardieu's immediate necessity and most pressing preoccupation—an entente with the Germans can wait. Just as twisting the British lion's tail used to be a popular device in the United States, so French nationalists find electional virtue in plucking at the posterior feathers of the Teutonic eagle. Mr. Tardieu's cut observation at Geneva while discussing the American disarmament proposal, that certain nations might be bear in mind that the conference is a League of Nations affair, shows that (tiding a peck at the American eagle must be good French politics just now, too.

The Germans must also play this game. The Hindenburg-Braun administration, which has just smashed the Hitlerites in the presidential election, has fingered war with the "Rasch" to fight and win on April 24, when a Prussian diet is to be elected. This is not the moment for doing anything to strengthen Hitler's hands, for doing anything to strengthen French viewpoints in respect of Danubian confederation, disarmament or reparations automatically would do. So stiff-neckedness is the order of the day in Germany as well as France.

The French elections for the chamber will come to an end on May 8. By that time the politicians in both Germany and France will know where they are "at." Their hands will be far freer. They can resume consideration of the Danubian confederation on its merits and not on the basis of how it would affect the vote in Germany or France. If the plan to save a Central Europe from bankruptcy were adopted now—as there is urgent reason to do. The spokesmen of both countries can comfort themselves at Geneva and at Lausanne in June as statesmen and not as politicians.

Their necessities, if not their intelligence, is it reassuring to feel, will sooner or later drive the political arbiters of Europe into decisions that are indispensable to its self-preservation. Meantime, let it be remembered that prevailing cantankerousness is not as desperate as it looks, and that it has its principal explanation in events soon to pass.—Washington Star.

WOULD PUT BANDITS TO DEATH.

Judge Lewis, of the quarter sessions court, in passing sentence on two youthful bandits, expressed the opinion that it would be a good thing for the community if such offenders were put to death. He said that, if such penalties were imposed, banditry by boys would come to a sudden end. He predicted that within the next five years some of the states, as a matter of protection to citizens, would decree capital punishment for things and hold-up men. This view of an alarming situation will find an echo in the minds of many citizens.

The judge referred to this class of criminals as "rats" and added: "Why should it be necessary in this city or any other community for decent law-abiding citizens to walk our streets in fear of bandits? It would be much better to kill them off. There are only a comparatively few of them, and if they were disposed of the rest of us could live in peace. I do not think that young boys or young men who commit such crimes are worth keeping. There isn't anything in them that makes it worth while for the community to preserve their lives, or to be put to the great expense of caring for them for many years."

These are strong words, coming from the bench; but who shall say that the provocation is not great? We have had altogether too much sympathy for brutal criminals and not enough for their victims. We have tolerated these sewer rats of society too long. Unless drastic measures are adopted we might as well stop boarding of our so-called civilization.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Danger of Tuberculosis.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

We have economic conditions that mean as sure as fate that the tuberculosis death rate will increase. Essential to its prevention are good food, fresh air, sunlight and rest. How are people to get these if they haven't any money?

We have had a period of economic prosperity in America, coinciding with progress in overcoming these conditions which predispose to tuberculosis. With better living conditions, the disease has been decreasing.

But when people huddle in the slums, a whole family sitting in one room, you have all the makings for the spread of tuberculosis. How many men, women and children have done that this last winter? Millions of them! The mind of the tuberculosis patient should be kept free from worry of every kind. His surroundings must be made as cheerful as possible. While it is almost invariably true that the patient has the feeling he will be better "tomorrow," yet there is an inner sense of discouragement that goes with this disease, a quickened imagination as the body becomes weaker. The happier the outlook can be made for the patient the better.

But it is hard to be happy if poverty exists. The advantages we have won in the war against disease will be lost if we can not find ways to feed, clothe and house the toilers of America.

Twenty-five years ago every seventh funeral was that of a consumptive. Today, as the result of well-directed efforts against the white plague, tuberculosis has become one of the minor causes of disease and death.

The essentials in wiping out this agent of the Grim Reaper are the food and shelter that go with high standards of living. If we permit the heads of 10,000,000 families to skimp on food, to lessen the milk supply of the children and to take less than their fair quota of nourishment, tuberculosis will thrive as it did in the slums of a generation ago.

The palatial homes are in danger, too, when tuberculosis and other diseases of undernourishment thrive in the tenements. Through the servants, clerks in stores and offices, and the thousands and ones contacts of life, the germs of disease which thrive in poverty are carried to the children of the rich. Nobody is safe unless all are safe.

Money must be supplied in generous amounts, to the patient and those who shall be no needless deaths from a preventable disease. Every man, woman and child in America has a direct, personal, selfish interest in this matter. Let us exert every effort and make every sacrifice to end the ravages of dread tuberculosis.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MAY. Q.—What foods are non-fattening?

A.—Vegetables, fruits, meats, bran, cereals, etc., are among the non-fattening foods.

Q.—What preparation will bleach the skin? What can be done to make freckles less noticeable?

A.—Equal parts of lemon juice and peroxide will act as a bleach for the skin but since the preparation may prove drying it would be well to use a good cold cream after each application.

Q.—I was born two years before my mother died of tuberculosis—this disease, runs in her family—do you think I will contract the trouble?

A.—Tuberculosis is not inherited although there may be a tendency to it in some cases. If you are careful to keep up your general health and to breathe fresh air, you will not contract the trouble. For if you catch it, send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question to the Editor, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Q.—I am a reader of this paper and am interested in the health of the community. I am of general interest. Where the editor of this paper is such that it can not be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write a preliminary if a self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. Royal S. Copeland in care of this paper.

Study of Avalanches.

BY H. A. PETERSEN

Berlin, April 18.—The yearly losses of life and property through snow avalanches have led Dr. W. Paulcke of the University of Karlsruhe to establish a bureau of research into the origin of such movements, with the goal of controlling them, or of diverting them in time in case they threatened villages or houses.

Dr. Paulcke's studies began with laboratory analysis of various qualities of snow and ice, until he determined those which were more susceptible to disturbance. Part of the analysis was carried on in the Alps, or other mountains with surprising results. Dr. Paulcke succeeded in establishing several different grades of snow, and through studying the crystallization processes of ice and snow, determined which forms were more dangerous.

Following this, he constructed artificial "avalanches" in his laboratory and learned how to determine about when they would fall, and to direct their paths. He then carried out the same experiments in the mountains, succeeding in many cases, by cutting the ice mass in a certain way, in directing them where he wished, thus saving many a theoretical village and building.

Dr. Paulcke carried his observations further and placed in the avalanche's path dummy figures of men and houses, in order to obtain exact observations of the workings of the avalanche, their speed, the time which a threatened person might count on to save himself and the direction he must take. He conducted part of this through use of slow-motion pictures, and already has a film of more than 1,

Cards Skid to Seventh in National as Cubs Win, 3-1

HOWEVER, CHAMPS CHEERFUL AS RIVALS START EVEN SLOWER

Boston Thumps Giants, 7-1, To Put McGrawmen in Cellar; Tribe Wins.

By The Associated Press
With the big league ball season one week old, it begins to look as if the champion St. Louis Cardinals will receive a run for their money.
In losing their fourth straight home game yesterday the champions dropped into seventh place.
While they started last season with a succession of triumphs, winning eight of their first eleven games and taking a lead they never relinquished, they found themselves today with two wins in six starts and a long, uphill climb before them.

Root Beats Cards
Charlie Root of the Cubs set them down with four hits yesterday and would have secured a shutout but for an error by Bill Heiman in the fourth. The score was 3 to 1.

The one cheering note for the Cardinals is that the New York Giants, generally regarded as their most dangerous rivals, have an even worse start. Walter (Duke) Bell of the Boston Braves, handed the McGrawmen a 7 to 1 beating yesterday, sending them into the basement.

Led by Babe Herman and Ray Kulp, the Cincinnati Reds further aroused their constituency with a 5 to 0 win over Pittsburgh. Kulp held the Braves to five hits while Herman drove in four of the Reds' runs with a double and a home run.

Phelps Blanks This
Babe Phelps, a sensation off Brooklyn in 1930 and a flop in 1931, made his 1932 debut by blanking the Phillies, 8 to 0, on six hits.

The Washington Senators supplied the fireworks in the American league with a crushing 15 to 7 triumph over the Athletics. Earl Johnson's proteges topped things off with a six-run apiece in the ninth, to which Sam West and Joe Judge contributed homers.

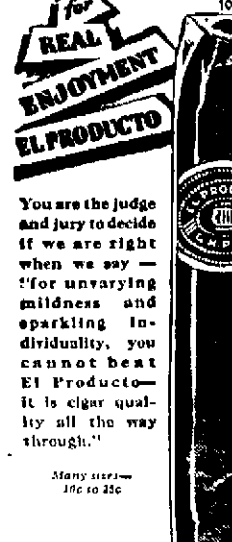

Wes Ferrell topped the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 1. Whitlow Wyatt of Detroit likewise scored victory No. 2 as the Tigers took a loss one from the St. Louis Browns, 14 to 7. The Tigers knocked Sam Gray from the hill in the fourth.

The Tanks and Red Sox were not scheduled.

Youngsters To Fill Posts for Lutheran Team

Note: This is the eighth of a series of stories concerning the prospects of the various city softball teams.

With the lineup that will probably be composed almost exclusively of young and for the most part of inexperienced talent, the Lutheran Sunday school softball team appears likely to find the going decidedly rough during the coming campaign for the No. 1 church league diamond championship. The Lutheran finished in next to last place last season with several veterans in the lineup but even these few old timers have announced their intention of dropping out in favor of the younger players this season. Of course, it is not at all certain all the veterans will drop out of the Lutheran picture. The lure of the diamond may keep some of them in the lineup and if it does the Lutheran entry may be counted on to spring a surprise now and then.

Very little is known yet concerning the probable lineup of the team. No manager has been named and only a few players have been turned in to the commission as eligible for competition. The club is expected to name a manager within a short time.

Marathoners Battle for Laurels in Boston Race

By The Associated Press
BOSTON, April 18.—A place on an Olympic marathon team and the laurel of the Boston A. A. marathon classic beckoned at Hopkinton, more than 26 miles of teeth-battering roadwork.
Of the crowd who will heap away at noon, however, only a small percentage were expected a chance of winning the grail.
Among the starters are candidates for five Olympic marathon teams and four former winners of the Boston A. A. event, Clarence Demas, 44-year-old school teacher who has won the race seven times out of 13 starts will run. He has been second twice, third twice,

It's Nothing but Mayhem as Walters Smash Each Other About Ring.
Wrestling fans last night were taken back to the days when Rome ruled supreme over the known world and its barbaric sports were real tests of human endurance and the record breaker did not come out alive.
More than 2,000 persons jammed the St. Louis gym for the roughest battle of Matlon's three years of modern wrestling history when Sammy Vangler and Robin Reed met in a no-holds-barred main go that sent fans home weak-kneed and nervous.
Reed won the match but it was not until the referee and the Matlon boxing commission were compelled to tame down the affair to a point where it was possible for today's human being to stand up under the grip of the most rugged little boys ever to set foot on the local mat, won the first fall in 15 minutes.

FONSECA STILL HUNTING CATCHER

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, April 18.—Young Bill Sullivan, son of old Bill Sullivan, who was a star catcher 25 years ago, is Manager Low Fonseca's latest Chicago White Sox backstop experiment.
The elder Sullivan caught for the Sox when they won the world championship in 1906.
The younger Sullivan, who is studying law at Notre Dame week-days and playing with the Sox Saturday and Sundays, played part of last season at third base. He hit well, but during his short service, managed to make more errors than any third baseman in the American league.
Fonseca decided to drill him in the art of catching. Minutes with a strangle hold, Reed had more than his hands full that first quarter of an hour.
The first fall did not serve as a warning to either wrestler and they continued their slam bang tactics. Reed, faced with almost certain defeat, revealed a new side to his wrestling life. He began taking desperate chances hoping for a "break" when he was unable to avoid Vangler's deadly strangle holds. He would rise to his feet with Vangler clinging to his neck and then throw himself over the ropes onto the floor. Reed repeated this often until at the end of 23 minutes neither wrestler was able to get back into the ring and both were counted out by the referee.
Returning after a five-minute rest period, the men were warned to cut out some of the rough stuff. Vangler refused to obey and was disqualified after six minutes. Reed winning the fall.
It took Reed about seven more minutes to batter Vangler to pieces and win the final fall.
In the semi-final, Sallor Arnold and Joe Hackenschmidt wrestled 45 minutes to a draw. Hackenschmidt won the first fall in 25 minutes with a crochit slam and Arnold took the second in 14 minutes with a leg split after soaking the German on the jaw. The remaining six minutes went without a fall.
Ray Dickson and Eddie Schuman wrestled to a draw in the 20-minute preliminary.

SAINTS DIZZY AFTER DROPPING 7TH FRAY

Champs Beaten by Indians, 5-4; Columbus Slaps Brewers, 10-0.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, April 18.—Albert Lefield, and his St. Paul club still were wondering today how to score the tying and winning runs in a ball game.
The Saints yesterday lost their seventh straight game and for the sixth time, were beaten by one run. The 1931 champions, had a 4 to 0 lead at the end of the fifth inning, but Indianapolis whipped up in time to win by 5 to 4.
Pete Fowler, Columbus' new southpaw, made an impressive job of shutting out Milwaukee, 10 to 0. For the Red Birds' second victory of the season, he held the Brewers to four singles. Pat Crawford, home run champion of the league last season, got his first four-bagger of the season as well as a double and a single.
Bob Osborne, former big league pitcher, also came up with a small pitching job, as Kansas City trounced Toledo, 10 to 1. He gave only five hits.

Louisville collected 10 hits off Rubo Benton, Minneapolis' veteran southpaw, but couldn't arrange them well enough to avoid a 4 to 2 beating.

PREMIER JOCKEY, ON WAY TO TOP AGAIN, WANTS DERBY MOUNT

Sande Has Hopes of Booting Home Fourth Winner in Kentucky Classic.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, April 18.—Earl Sande is on his way back to the top again, with designs on the Kentucky derby.
Winner of three derbies, a feat equaled only by the great Isaac Murphy, Sande again has answered the call of the turf with hopes of being the first to boot home for winners in the $50,000 blue grass classic, which will be renewed at Churchill Downs May 7.

Sande hasn't got a mount yet but he has several prospects. Max Hirsch, trainer of Mrs. Louis Kaufmann's Tick On and Or Poe, has promised him one of the colts if both are sent to the post.

Two years ago Sande returned to the saddle to ride to fame and fortune aboard Gallant Fox. He previously had won the derby with Flying Ebony and Zev.

While on a honeymoon in Florida with the widow of the late Charles Kummer, once a rival for public acclaim, Sande just couldn't resist the thoroughbreds, and started working out. At first he had difficulty making 126 pounds, but yesterday he rode at 113 pounds.

Earl's comeback campaign was given a temporary setback yesterday when he was suspended for three days for misbehavior at the post.

Sande has money but most of it is tied up in real estate.
